New Highway Program Gets Assembly OK

Harmony In Republican Party Split As Solons Wage Verbal Brawl

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Republican Ohio highway program, now practically on the law books, blasted through the Senate Thursday and the House quickly concurred.

But Senate passage of the program cost Republicans more than they wanted to pay. The Senate session wound up in a Republican-Republican verbal brawl which scuttled party harmony.

The Senate approved a proposal to submit to the voters next November a constitutional amendment authorizing issuance of $500 million worth of bonds to finance a speeded-up road building program. A similar proposal bogged down earlier in the House.

At the House agreed, finally, to let the people vote on whether they want to get improved highways quickly or get them on a pay-as-you-go basis.

THE SENATE vote on the axle-mile tax measure followed predictions almost exactly. Five Democrats joined 17 Republicans to approve the new tax on big trucks 22-11.

Senate Majority Leader Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) was cheered because he managed to round up enough Republican votes to pass the controversial bill without Democratic help, although he acknowledged Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche's support.

But at the height of Mechem's fury, broke among Republicans over a bill designed to give local government a share of the increased highway funds.

The House two months ago voted to split the $1 1/2 billion state highway maintenance fund three ways — $4 1/2 million for cities, $4 million for counties and $1 million for townships.

This distribution was in view of the $43 million a year the Legislature expects from the axle-mile and a one-cent gasoline tax increase.

Some Senate Republicans, particularly the Cincinnati delegation, insisted the distribution be split again—with half the total remaining in the highway department.

Monday, Sen. Oakley Collins (R-Lawrence) made the motion in the Senate Taxation Committee to slash the road fund distribution to local governments by half.

THE CINCINNATIANS—and Mechem—thought the deal was arranged. They claimed some senators (Continued on Page Two)

State Department Ignoring McCarthy's Blast On Books

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department stood its ground today in the face of Sen. McCarthy's attack on its new declaration that U. S. overseas libraries can stock some Communist-written books.

"Completely ridiculous," was the way the Wisconsin Republican described the department's policy order Thursday.

He sent a sharp note to Dr. Robert L. Johnson to appear in defense of the order next Wednesday before the Senate investigations subcommittee which McCarthy heads.

But Johnson, retiring chief of the International Information Agency, which operates the 189 libraries in 63 foreign countries, quickly served notice he does not plan to budge.

Johnson said the libraries "are in business to advance American democracy, not Communist conspiracy." Agreeing that Communist authors do not speak affirmatively for democracy, he said:

"IT WOULD BE unwise to forego the opportunity of using, to serve affirmatively the ends of democracy, something that a Communist has written for an entirely different purpose.

"In some cases the most effective way to refute propaganda of the Communists may be to turn the words of their own writers against them."

Johnson cited protests against "book burning" which arose after prior orders to purge from the libraries books by Communists, pro-Communists and other controversial writers. He said:

"In cases where books by Communists or Communist sympathizers are already in a library, especially in cases of fiction or other popular literature, we must consider whether the disadvantages of keeping such books may be outweighed by publicity regarding their certain removal which may be unfavorable to the United States and actually promote interest in the author and his works."

McCarthy challenged Johnson to tell the subcommittee the names of "those Communists whose writings you feel 'serve the ends of democracy.'" The Senator asked Johnson to bring with him "the individual or individuals responsible for the decision to continue the purchase of books by Communist authors."

Yankees Stop Chinese Stab At Porkchop

SEOUL (AP)—Infantrymen and big guns of the U. S. 7th Division broke up two more Chinese attacks today in the four-day struggle for Porkchop Hill in Western Korea.

Booming artillery shells scattered some 400 Reds who rushed the dug-in Americans. U. S. foot soldiers hurled the Communists down the slopes of the Allied-held height in savage hand-to-hand fighting. The Reds still had a toe-hold on part of the hill.

Another fierce battle raged six miles to the northeast where tough South Korean soldiers held off 400 attacking Reds.

An Allied artillery observer said one shell killed or wounded every one of 100 Chinese trying to pull off a western finger of Porkchop Hill.

Murky skies limited air action at the front, as daytime temperatures reached a sweltering 93 degrees Thursday, the hottest since last August.

A company of Reds circled around Porkchop at 4:30 a. m. and assaulted the southeastern side of the Allied outpost hill. American reinforcements chopped up part of the group that survived heavy shelling.

At last reports, U. S. troops were cleaning up the Chinese toe-hold on that part of the hill, routing them from trenches around the mountain base.

A night-long melee raged across the crest of Porkchop when 200 Chinese attacked bunkers high on the hill. At 6:30 a. m. the Reds pulled back slightly and holed up in some bunkers.

Short Shift In Red Court Facing Beria

Secret Police Boss Read Out Of Party By Malenkov Himself

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's No. Two man, gimlet-eyed secret police boss Lavrenty P. Beria, has been purged from the Russian government and Communist party as a traitor.

Mirroring the mighty struggle for power following Josef Stalin's death, the government announcements of his downfall indicated that Premier Georgi M. Malenkov had won at least the first phase of the long-rumored battle inside the Kremlin.

Malenkov, Beria and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov were regarded by the West as a triumvirate heading the Soviet government since Stalin's death March 5. Beria and Molotov were "first" deputy premiers and Beria also was minister of internal affairs.

The announcements said the 53-year-old Beria's "criminal" case would be turned over to the Soviet Supreme Court. He is certain to get short shift there.

MALENKOV, himself, presented the charges against Beria at a special meeting of 2,000 ranking Red leaders, including members of the Soviet police was accused of being a "hiring of foreign imperialism" and an "enemy of the Communist party and the Soviet people."

These are stereotyped accusations, common to Russian purge trials. Possibly more revealing was the additional charge that he attempted to "put the Ministry of Internal Affairs higher than the government and Communist party of the Soviet Union."

The party newspaper Pravda denounced him today as an agent of international imperialism and an "enemy of the Communist party and the Soviet people."

A party communiqué said Malenkov outlined the case against Beria before the party Central Committee, which took away party membership and office from the 53-year-old veteran Red.

A separate communiqué said the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) had removed the disgraced Beria from his posts as first deputy premier and minister of internal affairs.

"It was decided also by the Presidium that the case on the criminal actions of L. P. Beria should be turned over to the Supreme Court of the USSR," the announcement added.

Ike To Talk With Cattlemen Demanding Price Supports

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—President Eisenhower, on a surprise flying visit to the drought disaster conference of seven governors, today faced cattlemen who demanded federal price supports.

Some 500 embattled southwestern stockmen from five states formed a new organization in a meeting Thursday.

They urged the federal government to put a price support program for cattle into operation at once. The split in the ranks of the cattlemen came after charges that oil-rich ranchers "who can afford rugged individualism" run the big livestock associations.

In Washington, the Senate and House Thursday approved different bills to grant emergency loans of more than $2,500 to individual farmers and ranchers in the drought area.

In accepting the invitation from the governors, the President said he would be accompanied by Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson.

Vigorous Eisenhower Blast Forces McCarthy To Retreat

WASHINGTON (AP)—A vigorous blast from President Eisenhower, fired over the head of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), has blown J. B. Matthews out of the investigating job in which McCarthy had sought to keep him.

"Alien to America," the President said in obvious reference to the statement in a magazine article by Matthews that 7,000 Protestant clergymen are "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus" in this country.

McCarthy promptly accepted the resignation of Matthews, whom he has called "a star spangled American," as executive staff director of his investigating panel.

And today, the subcommittee refused to hear Matthews defend his charges. Members said McCarthy had suggested that Matthews be permitted to come before them to discuss his controversial statement about clergymen, but the senators apparently had heard enough already.

The fast breaking developments which marked Matthews' departure underscored seemingly strained relations between Eisenhower and McCarthy, who several times have seemed on the verge of head-on collisions.

Matthews, whose article about alleged communism in the ranks of Protestant clergymen had stirred up a bitter row, apparently acknowledged defeat within a few

Ben Hogan Wins British Open Tourney

CARNOUSTIE, England (AP)—Ben Hogan, golf's living legend, won the British Open Championship in his first try today, shooting a record 68 on the last round for a 72-hole score of 282. He had rounds of 73-71-70-68-282 for the second lowest score in the tournament's history.

The wiry Texan staged a spectacular finish for 20,000 golf-loving Scots, following the script which has marked his many American triumphs.

His last round 68 broke the Carnoustie course record of 69, set 20 years ago by Horton Smith and tied during this tournament by Argentina's Antonio Cerdá and Frank Stranahan.

Stranahan, the Toledo, Ohio amateur, sank a 40-foot eagle putt on the final green for a last round 69 which placed him in a tie at 286 with Dai Rees, little Welshman, and Australia's Peter Thomson, runner-up last year.

Hogan's 72-hole total was exceeded only by Bobby Locke's 279 in 1950.

Although winner of every major golf prize in America, Hogan before this year never had sought a British crown. He competed, he said, because of pressure from friends.

It may be his last big championship since he hinted after winning the U. S. Open that this probably is his last year of competitive golf.

Truce Talkers To Meet Again

No Report Is Given On First Session

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators met secretly for 29 minutes today, then recessed until Saturday their efforts to clear the final obstacles to a Korean truce still bitterly opposed by South Korea.

There was no hint whether the top-level delegations made progress toward signing an armistice during Friday's meeting. But the scheduling of another session was regarded as an indication that no serious disagreement had cropped up.

One source pointed out that the prisoner exchange agreement already signed calls for the two sides to trade up-to-date prisoner rosters before a truce is signed. It also provides that the lists be checked before the signing.

There has been no announcement of lists being exchanged. Resumption of the negotiations came after a 20-day recess which followed Rhee's release of some 20,000 anti-Communist Korean War prisoners.

It came on the second anniversary of the first session.

CORRESPONDENT Alan Winington of the London Daily Worker told Western newsmen here Friday:

"The thing now is whether the United Nations commander will give assurance that the armistice will not be broken. Rhee does not figure in the signing, only the military commanders of the two sides."

He said the Communists were interested in the talks in so far as they apply to a UN guarantee that South Korea will not violate a truce.

Rhee and Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson were reported in Washington Friday noon to have made substantial progress toward an agreement under which Rhee would go along with an armistice.

Well-informed authorities said that according to their latest information the conclusion of a full and final agreement with Rhee by Robertson could be almost instantly achieved, if the 78-year-old Korean leader did not again change his mind.

Stojek used a chain from his truck to pull the Meriner car from a slow-moving coal train with which it had become entangled Thursday after crashing over an embankment at Benwood, W. Va. The car was being ground to pieces by the train. The Meriners suffered only shock and severe bruises. Meriner apparently fainted at the wheel of the car.

Dulles Tells Allied Aides Of Opportunity

British And French Ministers Meeting With State Chieftain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told a Big Three foreign ministers meeting today that the Soviet purge of L. P. Beria means that "a new convulsion is underway" in Russia.

Opening the first of a series of talks with French Foreign Minister Bidault and the acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury, Dulles declared:

"We meet at the time of great opportunity" demonstrated by the Beria incident and also by the fact that behind the Iron Curtain "freedom is again in the air."

Dulles spoke shortly after the State Department had announced he has summoned Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen home for personal consultation on the ouster of the boss of the Soviet secret police. The department said Bohlen, U. S. envoy to Moscow and a long time student of Soviet affairs, "foresaw and reported the probable elimination of Beria several days ago."

As the Big Three ministers met, the ouster of Beria brought the big question: Does it foreshadow any change in Soviet foreign policy?

In immediate reaction to the Moscow announcement of Beria's expulsion from government and Communist Party posts, experts appeared somewhat divided on this point.

There was some thought here that Beria might be made the scapegoat for policies which permitted the recent uprisings against Communist rule in East Germany.

Other opinion held that Beria's fate should be considered primarily as a dramatic incident in Soviet internal politics.

At any rate, the development gave new urgency to the Big Three talks between Secretary of State Dulles, acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France, whose conferences were to open this afternoon.

ONE OF THEIR concerns is to analyze what has recently been happening in East Germany, what Russia's intentions are and what the Western Powers may be able to do to take advantage of the situation.

On one aspect of the Beria affair, U. S. officials were in full agreement. That is that Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov is acting decisively and ruthlessly to consolidate his power as Stalin's successor.

It was noted that Malenkov presented to the Communist party's Central Committee a report on Beria's alleged criminal activities in the interest of "foreign capital" which led to Beria's expulsion from the party.

The deposed leader also lost his job as first deputy chairman of (Continued on Page Two)

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—Quick action by truck driver Jack Stojek of Alliance, O., was credited with saving Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Meriner, both 29, of McMechen, W. Va., from serious injury and possible death.

Stojek used a chain from his truck to pull the Meriner car from a slow-moving coal train with which it had become entangled Thursday after crashing over an embankment at Benwood, W. Va. The car was being ground to pieces by the train. The Meriners suffered only shock and severe bruises. Meriner apparently fainted at the wheel of the car.

Highway Crash Takes 3rd Victim

AKRON (AP)—Violet Hoff, 39, died in People's Hospital today, the third victim of a highway collision Thursday in Loyal Oak.

The fourth occupant of the car, which was returning to Rittman after a hospital visit, was Mrs. Faye Hoff, 41, who was in poor condition.

The Rittman family had been visiting four-year-old Jay Hoff, who had been hurt in another accident. The boy died Thursday.

Committee Cuts New Fund Request

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee hacked heavily today into new funds requested by President Eisenhower for civil defense, the "Voice of America" and Air Force base construction.

It recommended an $4 per cent cut in the $1,069,996,084 requested by former President Truman for eight federal agencies and activities, allotting them $168,153,584.

Dulles Tells Allied Aides Of Opportunity

British And French Ministers Meeting With State Chieftain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told a Big Three foreign ministers meeting today that the Soviet purge of L. P. Beria means that "a new convulsion is underway" in Russia.

Opening the first of a series of talks with French Foreign Minister Bidault and the acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury, Dulles declared:

"We meet at the time of great opportunity" demonstrated by the Beria incident and also by the fact that behind the Iron Curtain "freedom is again in the air."

Dulles spoke shortly after the State Department had announced he has summoned Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen home for personal consultation on the ouster of the boss of the Soviet secret police. The department said Bohlen, U. S. envoy to Moscow and a long time student of Soviet affairs, "foresaw and reported the probable elimination of Beria several days ago."

As the Big Three ministers met, the ouster of Beria brought the big question: Does it foreshadow any change in Soviet foreign policy?

In immediate reaction to the Moscow announcement of Beria's expulsion from government and Communist party posts, experts appeared somewhat divided on this point.

There was some thought here that Beria might be made the scapegoat for policies which permitted the recent uprisings against Communist rule in East Germany.

Other opinion held that Beria's fate should be considered primarily as a dramatic incident in Soviet internal politics.

At any rate, the development gave new urgency to the Big Three talks between Secretary of State Dulles, acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France, whose conferences were to open this afternoon.

Mental Health Bill Facing Lausche Veto

COLUMBUS (AP)—A proposal to carve a new Department of Mental Hygiene from the present state welfare department headed today for Gov. Frank J. Lausche and a possible veto.

The house passed a Senate-approved bill Thursday night to create the new department for the care of the state's patients and prisoners. It would leave the welfare department with only public assistance programs to administer.

Lausche two years ago vetoed a similar measure and opponents of this Legislature's proposal indicated he might do so again.

Rep. Harold W. Oyster (R-Washington) carried the fight for the measure on the House floor. He said it was needed for greater efficiency in what he termed an unwieldy department.

The bill cleared the House by a vote of 75-35. It takes 82 votes to override a veto in the House; 20 in the Senate.

In other rapid-fire actions, the House passed and sent to the Senate bills:

Appropriating $40 million to local governments for the next two years after beating back attempts to increase the total to $44 million.

Boosting workmen's compensation benefits granted two years ago to permanently disabled workers to $25 a week.

During an afternoon session, the House overrode Lausche's veto of a bill to allow trustees to invest 35 per cent of a trust estate in stocks. The Senate has not acted on the veto.

Representatives passed 92-9 a Senate-approved bill requiring three-year residence in Ohio to become eligible for poor relief. The requirement now is one year.

tors voted for the axle-mile tax on assurances the distribution to local governments would be cut.

Then, as soon as the fund distribution measure reached the Senate floor, Collins moved to amend the bill right back where it was when it arrived from the House.

Fourteen Republicans and nine Democrats combined to approve the original distribution system. Within seconds after the vote, Sen. William H. Daddens (R-Hamilton) was on his feet shouting "Judah Iscariot!"

He leveled the heaviest part of his attack directly at Collins and wound up accusing the Ironton senator of lacking integrity.

Senators were stunned. Sen. David M. Ferguson (R-Cambridge) leaped to his feet to demand that the presiding officer, Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, force Daddens to cease his personal attack on Collins. The latter, obviously furious, kept his seat.

Daddens ended his speech quickly. Sen. Donald Rolf (R-Hamilton), chairman of the Senate Taxation Committee, took the floor, gulped, said, "I guess I won't say a thing," and sat down. Laughter followed and Rolf was stung. He jumped up, shouting:

"It isn't funny. I worked hard on this compromise. I threw aside all my personal beliefs for this compromise. And now that the axle tax is passed, its opponents are the first ones to grab, grab, grab."

2 Motorists Fined Here In Same Case

Two motorists were fined Friday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root in connection with the same case.

Robert Olen Bailey, 24, of Detroit, was fined $10 and costs for crossing a yellow line. Arrest was by Constable Harry B. Timmons in Circleville Township.

In addition, Olen was fined $5 and costs for driving without a license.

Paul Greer, 29, also of Detroit, was said to be owner of the car and was fined $10 and costs for permitting an unlicensed driver operate it.

The party accused Beria of "criminal activities designed at subverting the Soviet state in the interest of foreign capitalism" and of trying to put his Internal Affairs Ministry "higher than the government and Communist party of the Soviet Union."

Pravda said he had planned secretly to "seize the leadership of the party and the country" in order to restore capitalism.

Speculation that Beria was on the skids first boomed early in April, when the post-Stalin government released 15 doctors imprisoned in a much-trumpeted plot against top military and government officials.

The Malenkov regime blamed a minor official of Beria's old Ministry of State Security with framing the doctors.

One of the most feared men in the Soviet Union, Beria sprang to prominence toward the end of the bloody purges of the 1930s that made Stalin an absolute dictator. It was his job to purge the purgers.

He was a member of the Academy of Medicine of Cincinnati, the Ohio State and American Medical Associations, Cincinnati Pediatric Society and Medical Advisory Board member of the Hamilton County Chapter of the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He served as an elder in Glendale Presbyterian church.

In 1937, Dr. Stevenson was an exchange professor of pediatrics in Duke University, and in 1949 he was made an honorary graduate member of Phi Beta Kappa in Miami University. He also was a member of Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity, and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Surviving him is his widow, Mrs. Neva Mote Stevenson, widely known in nursing education in Cincinnati; a daughter, Mrs. Edward Berghausen, of Cincinnati; a son, John Stevenson, of Cincinnati; four brothers, Beryl and Bruce Stevenson, both of Circleville Route 2, H. Nevell Stevenson of Circleville Route 3 and Dr. Jean Stevenson of Cincinnati, associate professor of surgery in the University of Cincinnati; a sister, Mrs. Thomas Haber, of the Ohio State University English staff; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday in Glendale First Presbyterian church. Burial will be at 2:45 p. m. Saturday in Forest cemetery, Circleville.

Friends may call in the Clarence Baiter Funeral Home, Cincinnati. Friends have been asked to send contributions to the Frank E. Stevenson Memorial Research Fund, Department of Pediatrics, College of Medicine, University of Cincinnati, in lieu of flowers.

Wallace Clarifies Points As City Hurries Study On Court's Setup

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, gave assurance Friday that City Council is authorized to set the salary for Circleville's municipal judge.

A bill to set up a municipal court here Jan. 1 is expected to have the governor's signature early next week. Meanwhile, speculation and discussion were on the increase in reference to several phases of the court's operation.

Wallace earlier said he believed the salary for Circleville's judge would be set by law under a provision of the bill now being cleared in the legislature. Wallace said however, that he had checked the question and confirmed that the salary here will be set by Council.

The automatic salary - setting clause, he explained, relates only to communities with more than 20,000 population.

WALLACE ALSO nipped a report that both a police prosecutor and city solicitor would be required under the city court setup. He said only one man will have the responsibility involved in such positions.

Since candidates for municipal judge must file by Aug. 6 Council is expected to move rapidly to determine what salary the judge can expect for the court covering Circleville and Circleville Township.

One member of Council said the lawmakers very likely would send a committee to confer with a similar committee of Pickaway County represented Du Pont in handling the program.

Another detail Council will have to keep in mind in setting the judge's salary is the fact that it must be set for a six-year period.

Lamb has made a detailed study of the court's operation in Washington C. H.

He reported the judge in that city holds court on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of each week. Sessions would open at a certain hour in the morning and "continue as a rule until all the business on hand is cleared up for that day."

Saturday's session would be an exception to this rule, closing at noon.

Wallace Clarifies Points As City Hurries Study On Court's Setup

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, gave assurance Friday that City Council is authorized to set the salary for Circleville's municipal judge.

A bill to set up a municipal court here Jan. 1 is expected to have the governor's signature early next week. Meanwhile, speculation and discussion were on the increase in reference to several phases of the court's operation.

Wallace earlier said he believed the salary for Circleville's judge would be set by law under a provision of the bill now being cleared in the legislature. Wallace said however, that he had checked the question and confirmed that the salary here will be set by Council.

The automatic salary-setting clause, he explained, relates only to communities with more than 20,000 population.

WALLACE ALSO nipped a report that both a police prosecutor and city solicitor would be required under the city court setup. He said only one man will have the responsibility involved in such positions.

Since candidates for municipal judge must file by Aug. 6 Council is expected to move rapidly to determine what salary the judge can expect for the court covering Circleville and Circleville Township.

One member of Council said the lawmakers very likely would send a committee to confer with a similar committee of Pickaway County represented Du Pont in handling the program.

Bar Association. The Association long has been active in supporting the municipal court plan.

There was no indication as yet on when or where such a meeting will be held. Such a conference presumably would reach agreement on details which could then be placed before Council in regular meeting.

Council's next regular meetings are scheduled for July 21 and Aug. 4. The latter session will be just prior to the deadline on filing for the judge post.

Only apparent candidate for the municipal judge job is Sterling Lamb, Circleville attorney.

HOWEVER, HE has made it clear he is waiting to hear some clarification and additional details on various workings of the court procedure.

It has been frequently pointed out the city court judge will almost certainly lose a considerable portion of his business as an attorney because of personalities involved in his work as a judge.

Another detail Council will have to keep in mind in setting the judge's salary is the fact that it must be set for a six-year period.

Lamb has made a detailed study of the court's operation in Washington C. H.

He reported the judge in that city holds court on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of each week. Sessions would open at a certain hour in the morning and "continue as a rule until all the business on hand is cleared up for that day."

Saturday's session would be an exception to this rule, closing at noon.

Americans Said Buying Annuities To Back Up Social Security Checks

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans in fast increasing numbers are supplementing their future social security benefits with annuities designed to make their retirement years more comfortable.

With maximum social security benefits $85 a month for a man and $127.50 for a couple looking less and less adequate in the light of present prices, annuities are being bought by the hundreds of millions.

The Institute of Life Insurance reports today that ownership of annuities has more than doubled in the past ten years. At the start of this year, 4,238,000 annuities providing future income of $1,528,000,000 a year to the holders were in force.

That figure applies only to straight annuities, with no life insurance provisions, to pay the holder so much a month for life starting at a certain age - usually 65. If the holder dies before that age, his family gets back only the premiums he has paid.

In addition, there are policies totalling about 10 billion dollars that provide life insurance on the holders if they die before retirement age, and pay annuities for life if they live to that age. They provide for future annuities of at least one billion dollars a year.

If you include life insurance policies that have options for annuities rather than lump sum payments at a given age, the total runs to about three billion dollars a year in future income for holders.

The 4,238,000 total of annuities is divided this way: 2,707,000 are group annuities, mostly set up by employer - employer groups, and there are few duplications; individual annuities, some held by persons also covered by group policies, total 1,279,000 and 252,000 represent annuities set up by life insurance policies.

The average of all annuities in terms of future income for holders isn't so impressive - about $360 a year per policy, or $30 a month. Still, it would be a welcome addition to a couple getting $127.50 a month in social security.

However, the average includes many annuities set up before the recent inflationary spiral, and the trend is toward bigger annuities. Life insurance policyholders, through their insurance companies, have opened a big new source of capital for American business and industry.

New Style Boss Leads His Men Instead Of Browbeating Them

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Bosses are people. In a single generation the boss in America has changed from just another four-letter word to a human being, from a cartoon of evil power to a person who can be dealt with.

Why? In Russia, which promises the working man the moon but still employs slave labor, there is a vast gulf between the peasant and the bureaucrat.

In America and other parts of the free world, which long ago abandoned slavery as unprofitable and in the long run unworkable, the working man has reached a new peak of human dignity.

A rising standard of living and such gadgets as the income tax, perhaps, have reduced the difference between the boss and the hired hand. The comforts of our civilization—cars, homes, better food, television sets—are more and more within the reach of all.

The old hate-gap between employer and employee, between capital and labor, has narrowed, too.

The guy who works for a wage and the guy who supervises or owns the business are coming to understand that both are in the same boat, and if either rocks it too hard both may drown. This truth seems, in a century that in terms of war has been the most murderous in history, the best portent for survival of a way of life that has prospered more people than any system since the story of man began.

The plain fact is that capitalism has shown itself more responsive to change, more willing to correct its own abuses, than Communism. It has given more people more hope, more freedom, more bread, more opportunity, more dignity, more happiness.

This recognition of the team-ship between boss and hired man has made the role of boss more difficult. An old song says, "A Good Man Is Hard To Find." But industry is finding today that a good boss is even harder to find and hold.

The old style boss, who often ruled his underlings by the whip-lash of fear, is gradually joining the dinosaur. The new type boss leads men rather than drives them. His greatest weapon in getting his job done is not his authority, it is his depth of understanding. He must know how to get along with people.

He is less of an autocrat and more of an artist in human relations. He knows that a symphony orchestra conductor cannot make a tuba player blow a sound like a violin by beating him over the head with a baton. The baton is a symbol, not a club. It draws from each musician the right note at the right time and the result is harmonious achievement. The task of the boss, in office or factory, is the same as that of an orchestra conductor—to get from each man the best that is in him.

A boss today sometimes isn't sure whether he is a father, a policeman, a coach, or a psychiatrist. There are days when he must be all of them. And some days, when nothing seems to go right, he feels less like a boss than he does a prisoner. And, of course, that is what he also is—a prisoner of responsibility.

Bosses who deliberately set out to win the affection of their employees rarely do. But a boss who deals fairly and squarely cannot help but gain their admiration and respect, qualities which in time turn to fondness.

Why are good bosses scarce and in high demand? Ask the average employee if he really wants to be the boss himself.

"My wife kind of wants me to, but I don't," he will say, if honest. "Too many worries. No fun. You gotta please too many people."

That is perhaps the best tribute you can pay a good boss today. Most people who work for him no longer envy him because they wouldn't take his troubles for his salary.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

We are the owners of the "bullying tom cat" about which George Crites complained to Council Tuesday evening.

Now, if Mr. Crites knows a way to change the way God made the cat, then we wish he would reveal it to the public, as there are no doubt numerous interested parties who would change nature's ways.

This feline is a pretty important pet to the children in this household and he gets pretty good food and treatment. We don't think hunger was the reason for his catching birds or bunnies. The bunnies happen to be wild rabbits, which no doubt do more damage to the gardens in the neighborhood than the cat. We think Mr. Tomcat has caught enough rats and mice in this vicinity to more than earn him a bird or two.

It is our opinion that if they don't know what to do at Council meetings, a large amount of people would agree they might spend more time worrying about the smell emanating from the city dump and a few more important issues such as the by-pass, than worry about a poor

UP FROM THE DEPTHS

WHAT IS CHIEFLY remarkable about the new look of the Kremlin is the cheapness with which it is being acquired. Malenkov and company are piling up a reputation for decency solely by ceasing to do some of the things which no other nation ever dreamed of doing.

The possibilities of such "propaganda victories" are enormous. It is not only that the Communists, beginning in the depths of degradation, have such a long way to go to reach even the minimum standards of the civilized world; they also have taken the precaution of retrogressing in some major way for every minor step forward.

Thus while announcing the easing of travel restrictions in Russia, they continue to shoot anti-Communist demonstrators in East Germany. In Korea, while posing as lovers of peace by resolutely negotiating a truce wholly to their own advantage, their armies mount heavy eleventh-hour offensives to secure minor military objectives at a huge cost of life.

It is not quite accurate to say anyone is being fooled by these abatements of Communist savagery. It is easy to see that the permission offered to a handful of carefully screened foreigners to visit Kiev and Yalta does not go far toward bringing the Soviet Union back to the family of nations. Nevertheless, when an enemy leaves off beating one about the ears, the continuing pummeling in the midriff feels a most peaceful. And the mind inevitably picks up the supposed trend. If the blows are now falling softer, might they not in time cease altogether?

An answer to that question is being played out in East Germany. The Russians, obviously, are in trouble. It is serious enough to account for a change in Soviet tactics designed to ease hostile pressures. But the repressive measures being taken against the Germans are as brutal and unprincipled as any expression of tyranny under the Stalinist regime.

THEY'RE IN AGAIN

TWO "GRIZZLED MINERS" have just returned to town in Butte County, Calif., with a harrowing tale of how their mountain diggings were invaded by midge-manned flying saucers.

Each time, they said, a pint-sized man jumped from the contraption, scooped up a jigger-sized pail of water from the creek and handed it to someone inside. Thereon the saucer zoomed away.

It is easy to believe this tale absolutely, because this is just the right season for it. How explain the phenomenon? These are probably the regular flying saucer crews, properly dehydrated and with all the wind taken from them.

These Days

The following letter was sent as a circular to a large number of persons and is a direct attack on the fiscal policies and administrative directives of President Eisenhower.

The question it raises is whether the authority of government is vested in the elected officers of this nation, who function in accordance with the Constitution, or whether an appointive bureaucracy may sabotage the government, use official stationery and the franking privilege in the mails to create a public sentiment against the authorities.

The further question is raised in this letter as to whether budgetary appropriations are to be made by Congress, as the Constitution provides, or by appointed officials to suit their desires and convenience.

I give the circular letter in full:

Department of State
International Claims Commission of the United States
Washington

June 25, 1953

Dear Sir or Madam:

This letter (addressed to claimants, their attorneys and members of Congress) is to advise that due to the neglect, failure and refusal of the Administration to authorize the submission of a budget request for the Commission to the Congress for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1953, the Commission will be without funds, commencing on that date and, accordingly, will be unable to exercise its functions as required by law. Since all members of the staff of the Commission are being separated as of June 30, 1953, due to lack of funds, this letter will serve as a cancellation of previous notices of hearings pending before the Commission and scheduled on or after July 1, 1953. No further action at this time can be taken by the Commission with respect to claims filed under the Yugoslav and Panama claims settlements. Nor can the Commission advise as to the action which may be taken with respect to the reverter rights of these Governments in the funds under its jurisdiction.

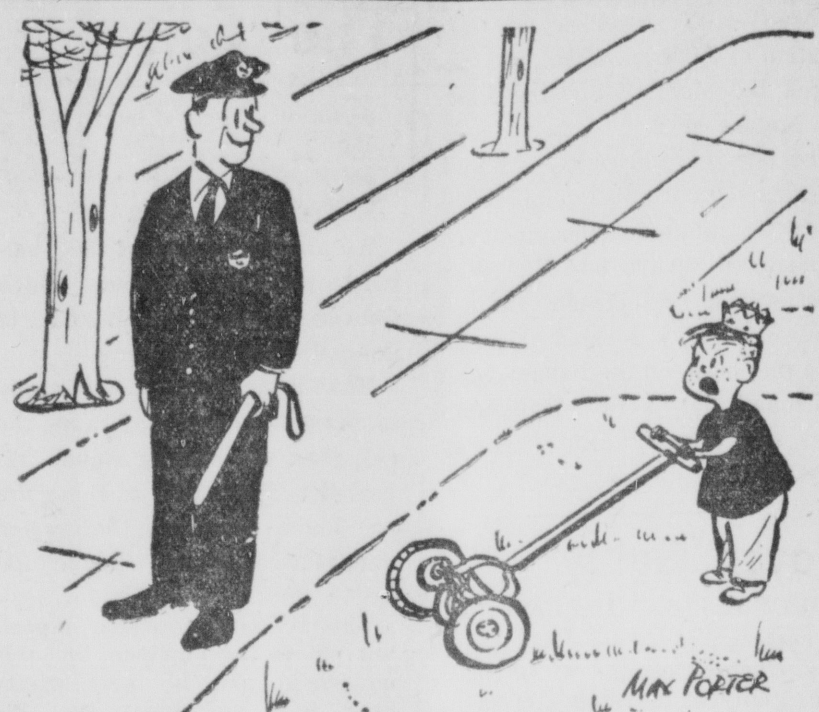

This Commission was established by law (Public Law 455, 81st Congress) in the Department of State as a quasi-judicial independent tribunal to adjudicate claims and its decisions are final with no appeal to the Secretary of State or to the courts. Its members may be removed by the Secretary of State only for cause after notice and hearing. On June 9 and 10, 1953, the resignations of the members of the Commission were requested by responsible officials of the Department of State and of the Office of the President.

Failing in their efforts to force the resignations of the Commissioners, the Administration is now withholding from Congress a budget request in order to deprive the Commission of funds with which to operate during the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1953. The action of the Administration in withholding this budget request is an unwarranted interference with quasi-judicial function of this Commission, and is an attempt to force resignations of its members.

Science Works on the Problem Of Keeping the World in Food

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A SOCIAL planner of the eighteenth century, visualizing the future increase in the world's population, advocated a firm policy of killing off a certain percentage of the people to prevent world starvation. This admittedly is a drastic step and one that no longer seems necessary with modern scientific developments.

It is true that the population of the world has increased and the food-getting centers have decreased. Therefore, the question of adequate amounts of food to feed the entire population of the world has grown in importance.

Possible Extinction

There are groups of people in this world that are living in starvation. There are areas on earth that have ceased to be self-sufficient. Some scientists have estimated that large segments of the world's population might face extinction ultimately unless medical scientists can provide adequate food for their intake.

Of course, rotation and refrigeration of crops and other modern farm methods have increased the world's food supply greatly. However, newer sources of food have to be sought.

It has been theorized that insects might make a good source of food. It is interesting that honey, which is a product of an insect, is widely used by the entire population today. However, at the thought of eating insects, most people become nauseated.

Primitive Tribes' Fare

There are primitive tribes in certain parts of the world who do eat all edible forms of insects, such as ants, locusts, grasshoppers and caterpillars. Supplies may be seasonable both in quantity and quality, however.

Despite the fact that insects can be and are eaten if necessary, mankind would benefit more by the elimination of disease and crop destruction brought about by destroying insects, rather than encouraging their propagation as food materials.

Herbs and Grasses

We all know that herbs and grasses are great sources of food to cows, sheep and other animals which we use for food. Scientists are now making efforts to free the proteins from the grass fiber and, by combining it with other substances, make it attractive as human food.

Of course, yeast has been used to synthesize vitamins, to make alcoholic beverages, and yeasts are now being used to synthesize proteins from molasses.

Scientists are now working in developing ocean plants as sources of human food and, in the not too distant future, many parts of our population may be fed on synthesized manufactured foods and vitamins.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. H. R.: My husband and I are left-handed. Will our children be left-handed?

Answer: There may be a hereditary factor operating in some families causing left-handedness. If both parents are left-handed, approximately 43 per cent of the children are left-handed. If only one parent is left-handed only about 12 per cent of the children will be left-handed.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

THE SLASH 7 ranch yard spread before Manning in all its littered slovenliness, with the house gaunt and ugly just ahead and the sick cattle standing in the corral. You could take the measure of Mack Torgin by one look around this place. But the real thought in Manning was that he'd been here before, as a small boy.

Mack Torgin stood in his doorway, big and blocky and black-browed.

Stepping down from his saddle unbidden, Manning said, "Howdy, Mack."

There was no more welcome in Torgin than there was juice in a boiled boot, and there was no surprise in him either. He said, "I figured that sooner or later you'd find your way down the trail," and he put such bluster into it that it struck Manning that Torgin was afraid.

Thus was the first victory Manning's, but it made him no less wary. He looked at Torgin and was again reminded of a grizzly bear. One poke with the stick and you'd have Torgin rampaging. Around them the ranch dreamed in the last of the day, and out of the willows bordering the creek came four riders, heading toward the corral.

Torgin asked, "Well, what do you want?"

Manning shrugged. "Were you expecting me because you've got a couple of people who don't belong here?"

"A couple?" Torgin repeated and his face showed true surprise.

"One called Gal, though he's down on the book as Texas Joe Bridger, late of Deer lodge. There's a law against going over the wall. And there's a law for those that keep a convict in hiding afterwards."

Torgin said, "Well, I didn't know."

He'd been hit hard, as Manning could plainly see. Torgin hadn't expected anybody would be looking for Gal. It was Packrat Purdy who was on his brutish mind, and this sudden shift had caught him off balance. Manning knew a certain delight, though he kept himself still-faced.

"How about it?" he asked.

Torgin's eyes squinted down. "Maybe he didn't tell me about his backtrail." He opened and closed his broad hands. "You can't pin this on me," he said, making it bluster, too bluster, and Manning thought: He'd throw his righthand man to me if it meant saving his own skin.

He said, "I'm here for a look around."

"Look all you want," Torgin said.

Those four were down from leather and off-saddling out there by the corral; and Torgin looked toward them, his face showing nothing, his eyes only slightly speculative. They stared back at their boss, and Torgin shook his head ever so slightly, but the tension mounted in Manning.

He stood with the reins lax in his hands; he stood indolent, but he was fixing the pattern of the yard in his mind, and there was mighty little shelter near where he stood. He could make a lunge for the Winchester in its saddle scabbard, but one rifle wouldn't add up to five Colts. Let something uncork, and his best bet was to rush Torgin and bowl him over and so gain the shelter of the house. Torgin looked soft around the middle and a hard belting might drive him down. But he mustn't make that play until the real need arose. He mustn't lose the edge he'd gained, and that edge was Torgin's fear.

He said softly, "Mack, I've got a marshal's badge pinned under my vest."

"I know that," Torgin said. "I recognized you the first day, and I can still read newspaper print if I put on a pair of cheaters. How do you fit this into a federal case?"

"Turning Gal over to the warden would be just a service to the state," Manning admitted. "It's Packrat Purdy I'm really after. If it's legality you're questioning, there was mail lifted in that stagecoach robbery years back."

"Look all you want," Torgin said again.

Manning nodded. "I'll do that," he said, and led his horse to the barn.

Torgin came along, limping slightly. Manning fell back a pace and let Torgin come abreast of him. Inside the barn, Manning tied his sorrel in an empty stall and prowled the gloomy depths. He had a peek into the harness room.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, July 10 — The most powerful leaders on Capitol Hill have served sharp notice on the Big Three diplomats meeting here today that they will be wasting their time, if they make any definite decisions or plans with regard to the East-West conflict that contemplate a friendly settlement with Communist Russia or China.

While not seeking to sabotage the Little Bermuda Conference, prominent Republican and Democratic spokesmen have set definite limits on its scope. They have warned that they will use their power over the American government's purse strings to block any action which, in their opinion, jeopardizes this country's interests.

Although it is not generally recognized, the seemingly concerted blast against Anglo-French policies of "appeasement" of the Reds constitutes the most serious attempt made by Congress to interfere with President Eisenhower's exclusive conduct of foreign affairs. It exceeds in audacity Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's various adventures and escapades in this field.

ANGLO-FRENCH SCHEME

The British and French representatives—Lord Salisbury and Georges Bidault—have come to Washington with two principal objectives. The first is to persuade Ike to try to reach a peaceful agreement with Moscow on European problems. The second is to find a way for ending the wars in Korea and Indochina, which are extremely unpopular in Britain and France.

The underlying purpose behind the Anglo-French scheme is to eliminate the need for building a vast and expensive European military, naval and air force under American auspices.

As Churchill contends, the Kremlin's post-Stalin peace offers seem genuine enough to deserve consideration. The prime minister and Bidault also feel that the recent anti-Communist outbreaks give the West new and greater bargaining power.

IKE WANTS PROOF

The skeptical Eisenhower does not share this viewpoint, and demands more concrete evidence of Malenkov's good intentions. Likewise, he believes that signs of stress inside the Communist Empire counsel a delay in negotiation. He is as insistent as ever that Western Europe proceed with its rearmament program even more rapidly.

However, lest the President and Secretary Dulles be persuaded to retreat on these points, the bipartisan congressional bloc has notified him and the foreign delegation that it will not go along on such a program. In addition to withholding necessary appropriations, it will not ratify any executive pacts designed to underwrite a weakening of American policy.

AID REDUCTIONS

These considerations animated Senator Taft, Senate majority leader, when he notified Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen that he would not support his help-Europe organization. They also inspired Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia, hitherto an internationalist, when he snapped that "I have voted for Mutual Security funds for the last time."

By Ray Tucker

Resentful House members, by an overwhelming vote, showed their impatience toward our Allies' more recent behavior, and toward Salisbury-Bidault arguments. They provided for a $1 billion reduction in foreign aid money, if Europe failed to meet NATO schedules on rearmament. The Senate retained this provision, but vested discretionary authority in using this weapon in the White House.

CONGRESS DEJECTED

Although willing to accept the proposed truce terms in "Korea for humanitarian reasons, a majority in both chambers are dejected over such an outcome. Many have a secret sympathy and admiration for Syngman Rhee's insistence on reunification of all Korea by force, if necessary.

In short, while the European visitors propose peace and reconciliation with the Reds, the American Congress informs the President that it wants no letup in the Cold War, now that the United States seems to be winning.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

THE SLASH 7 ranch yard spread before Manning in all its littered slovenliness, with the house gaunt and ugly just ahead and the sick cattle standing in the corral. You could take the measure of Mack Torgin by one look around this place. But the real thought in Manning was that he'd been here before, as a small boy.

Mack Torgin stood in his doorway, big and blocky and black-browed. Stepping down from his saddle unbidden, Manning said, "Howdy, Mack."

There was no more welcome in Torgin than there was juice in a boiled boot, and there was no surprise in him either. He said, "I figured that sooner or later you'd find your way down the trail," and he put such bluster into it that it struck Manning that Torgin was afraid.

Mack was the first victory Manning's, but it made him no less wary. He looked at Torgin and was again reminded of a grizzly bear. One poke with the stick and you'd have Torgin rampaging. Around them the ranch dreamed in the last of the day, and out of the willows bordering the creek came four riders, heading toward the corral.

Torgin asked, "Well, what do you want?"

Manning shrugged. "Were you expecting me because you've got a couple of people who don't belong here?"

"A couple?" Torgin repeated and his face showed true surprise. "One called Gal, though he's down on the book as Texas Joe Bridger, late of Deer lodge. There's a law against going over the wall. And there's a law for those that keep a convict in hiding afterwards."

Torgin said, "Well, I didn't know."

He'd been hit hard, as Manning could plainly see. Torgin hadn't expected anybody would be looking for Gal. It was Packrat Purdy who was on his brutish mind, and this sudden shift had caught him off balance. Manning knew a certain delight, though he kept himself still-faced.

"How about it?" he asked. Torgin's eyes squinted down. "Maybe he didn't tell me about his backtrail." He opened and closed his broad hands. "You can't pin this on me," he said, making it bluster, too bluster, and Manning thought: He'd throw his righthand man to me if it meant saving his own skin.

He said, "I'm here for a look around."

"Look all you want," Torgin said. Those four were down from leather and off-saddling out there by the corral; and Torgin looked toward them, his face showing nothing, his eyes only slightly speculative. They stared back at their boss, and Torgin shook his head ever so slightly, but the tension mounted in Manning.

He stood with the reins lax in his hands; he stood indolent, but he was fixing the pattern of the yard in his mind, and there was mighty little shelter near where he stood. He could make a lunge for the Winchester in its saddle scabbard, but one rifle wouldn't add up to five Colts. Let something uncork, and his best bet was to rush Torgin and bowl him over and so gain the shelter of the house. Torgin looked soft around the middle and a hard belting might drive him down. But he mustn't make that play until the real need arose. He mustn't lose the edge he'd gained, and that edge was Torgin's fear.

He said softly, "Mack, I've got a marshal's badge pinned under my vest."

"I know that," Torgin said. "I recognized you the first day, and I can still read newspaper print if I put on a pair of cheaters. How do you fit this into a federal case?"

"Turning Gal over to the warden would be just a service to the state," Manning admitted. "It's Packrat Purdy I'm really after. If it's legality you're questioning, there was mail lifted in that stagecoach robbery years back."

"Look all you want," Torgin said again.

Manning nodded. "I'll do that," he said, and led his horse to the barn.

Torgin came along, limping slightly. Manning fell back a pace and let Torgin come abreast of him. Inside the barn, Manning tied his sorrel in an empty stall and provided the gloomy depths. He had a peek into the harness room.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, July 10 — The most powerful leaders on Capitol Hill have served sharp notice on the Big Three diplomats meeting here today that they will be wasting their time, if they make any definite decisions or plans with regard to the East-West conflict that contemplate a friendly settlement with Communist Russia or China.

While not seeking to sabotage the Little Bermuda Conference, prominent Republican and Democratic spokesmen have set definite limits on its scope. They have warned that they will use their power over the American government's purse strings to block any action which, in their opinion, jeopardizes this country's interests.

Although it is not generally recognized, the seemingly concerted blast against Anglo-French policies of "appeasement" of the Reds constitutes the most serious attempt made by Congress to interfere with President Eisenhower's exclusive conduct of foreign affairs. It exceeds in audacity Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's various adventures and escapades in this field.

ANGLO-FRENCH SCHEME — The British and French representatives—Lord Salisbury and Georges Bidault—have come to Washington with two principal objectives. The first is to persuade Ike to try to reach a peaceful agreement with Moscow on European problems. The second is to find a way for ending the wars in Korea and Indochina, which are extremely unpopular in Britain and France.

The underlying purpose behind the Anglo-French scheme is to eliminate the need for building a vast and expensive European military, naval and air force under American auspices.

As Churchill contends, the Kremlin's post-Stalin peace offers seem genuine enough to deserve consideration. The prime minister and Bidault also feel that the recent anti-Communist outbreaks give the West new and greater bargaining power.

IKE WANTS PROOF — The skeptical Eisenhower does not share this viewpoint, and demands more concrete evidence of Malenkov's good intentions. Likewise, he believes that signs of stress inside the Communist Empire counsel a delay in negotiation. He is as insistent as ever that Western Europe proceed with its rearmament program even more rapidly.

However, lest the President and Secretary Dulles be persuaded to retreat on these points, the bipartisan congressional bloc has notified him and the foreign delegation that it will not go along on such a program. In addition to withholding necessary appropriations, it will not ratify any executive pact designed to underwrite a weakening of American policy.

AID REDUCTIONS — These considerations animated Senator Taft, Senate majority leader, when he notified Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen to prepare for liquidation of his help-Europe organization. They also inspired Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia, hitherto an internationalist, when he snapped that "I have voted for Mutual Security funds for the last time."

Resentful House members, by an overwhelming vote, showed their impatience toward our Allies' more recent behavior, and toward Salisbury-Bidault arguments. They provided for a $1 billion reduction in foreign aid money, if Europe failed to meet NATO schedules on rearmament. The Senate retained this provision, but vested discretionary authority in using this weapon in the White House.

CONGRESS DEJECTED — Although willing to accept the proposed truce terms in Korea for humanitarian reasons, a majority in both chambers are dejected over such an outcome. Many have a secret sympathy and admiration for Syngman Rhee's insistence on reunification of all Korea by force, if necessary.

In short, while the European visitors propose peace and reconciliation with the Reds, the American Congress informs the President that it wants no letup in the Cold War, now that the United States seems to be winning.

Miss Ent Guest Speaker At Art League Meeting

Mrs. Robinson Hosts Group

Fifteen members of Circleville Art League met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. W. W. Robinson on Circleville Route 3 for the first in a series of art lectures conducted by guest artists.

Miss Ruth Montelius introduced Miss Dorothy Ent, art teacher in Lancaster High School, who showed pieces of art in water color, oil and design made by her pupils as well as her own work.

She said "Art work is a sense of feeling and color combined and the artist must learn to see shapes and colors. The important thing in doing art is to have something to paint or have something to say. Artists fool the eye by giving an illusion of space and distance on a flat surface."

In discussing modern art, Miss Ent said the modern artists were trying to do something new and it was more or less a trend of the times.

After the talk members submitted pieces of their work for criticism.

Miss Ent invited members to her home in Lancaster for the next meeting, Aug. 13, where they will view more than 100 pictures of old homes the guest artist painted for her thesis. Her home is decorated with murals.

Two new members, Mrs. Roy Wood of Stoutsville and Mrs. Vera VanCleve of Amanda, were welcomed into the group.

EXCITING NEW "PORT" RED — In fine handkerchief cotton checks, is used by Mollie Parnis for new summer glamour. Empire bodice has full tucked bodice and there are unpressed pleats in the full skirt. Deeper "port" velvet banding forms the shoe string straps and belt, and trims the versatile handkerchief stole.

Mrs. Emerson Havens and daughter, Pamela Jo, of Washington C. H. are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Donohoe and sons of near Mt. Sterling.

A Pattern of Christian Behavior

ST. PAUL GIVES BELIEVERS RULES FOR RIGHT LIVING

Scripture—Romans 6:1-4; 12.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
LIFE is a constant struggle, is it not? Not only do we strive with outside influences—school, society, jobs, national and international problems, etc., but our inner struggles are constant from childhood to old age. We have ideals of conduct, but how rarely does our conduct live up to those ideals?

Children have their problems as well as adults: how to adjust their desires and impulses to the will of parents; how to "get along" with other youngsters; how to learn to study and to do well at school. Life is not easy for youngsters.

Then when they grow to manhood and womanhood horizons (and problems) widen. St. Paul, in his epistle to the Romans laid out a way of life for Christians that would, if all people in all parts of the world and of all faiths could only follow it, bring about the Millennium—and quickly!

In his sixth chapter of the epistle he states that Christ died body, but "all members have not the same office. So we, being many, and every one members one of another. Having then gifts differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith," and so with other gifts—ministering, exhorting, etc. Who should then be envious of others with differing talents?

"Let love be without dissimulation (or hypocrisy). Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good."

"Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honor preferring one another."

Be not slothful in business, Paul says further, and that is a reminder most pertinent today when we see irresponsibility, sloppy work and idleness frequently. Let Paul's words to the Colossians, be our motto: "And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men."—Col. 3:23.

We should rejoice in hope; be patient in trouble, pray constantly. Also he asks that hospitality be given to the missionaries when they come, weary and footsore, needing food and shelter.

"Bless them which persecute you; bless and curse not. Rejoice with them that do rejoice; and weep with them that weep."

We tend to take our friends' griefs lightly, do we not? with words of sympathy, it is true, but not with any depth of feeling. "Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men."

"If it is possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men."

"Avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath; for it is written, Vengeance is Mine; I will repay, saith the Lord."

If your enemy is hungry, feed him; if thirsty, give him drink, for in so doing you will heap coals of fire upon his head. If you had treated a person very badly and he returned your cruelty with kindness, wouldn't you feel small and mean? That is what heaping coals of fire on his head most likely means. And such treatment might very well result in the overcoming of evil with good.

These admonitions of St. Paul's are high ideals, but we can—large or small, rich or poor—strive toward them and pray.

We have many members in one

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin took a beating on the case of J. B. Matthews. He got into trouble almost from the moment he hired the man. In the end he ran head-on into President Eisenhower and the American clergy. Then he folded, but not until then.

McCarthy seemed fascinated by the 59-year-old Matthews, a chubby-faced man whom the senator called a "star-spangled American" and an "outstanding authority" on subversion. He considered himself one of Matthews' "pupils and admirers."

Three weeks ago he hired Matthews as executive director of McCarthy's Senate investigating subcommittee staff.

Shortly afterwards the American Mercury magazine appeared with an article by Matthews. The opening paragraph said Protestant clergymen comprise "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus." And Matthews' article said further that in the last 17 years the Communists had employed 7,000 Protestant clergymen as spies, Communists, fellow-travelers or dupes.

Matthews claimed to be in a position to know. He had been a fellow-traveler himself. He was not one of those people who know from childhood the career they will follow as the Washington Star found out in an interview not long before McCarthy showed him the tape.

Matthews, said the Star, described himself as a man "ever hungry for extreme solutions to the problems of the world." His career seems to bear out the description.

He was a Methodist minister but later, when he became a Marxist Socialist and a fellow-traveler, attacked the clergy as tools of capitalism. He worked with Socialists and Communists in 28 front organizations until he got fed up with the Communists, too, and became an anti-Communist.

Seemingly without great difficulty, he shifted from accusing the clergy of being tools of capitalism to accusing thousands of them of being tools of communism.

For years he has been a professional expert on communism and subversion. But when McCarthy hired Matthews and then the American Mercury article appeared, the senator found out he was in trouble. McCarthy, a Roman Catholic himself, has steered clear of involvement with the clergy of any faith.

Although he's been in some hot and embarrassing spots, McCarthy has operated very shrewdly since the time he first got national attention three years ago with his charge that the State Department was loaded with Communists.

But by holding onto Matthews, and even defending him, it seemed not unlikely that McCarthy might turn millions of religious-minded people against him, particularly Protestants, since it was the Protestant clergy that Matthews had written about.

When four of the seven senators on his committee demanded that Matthews be fired, McCarthy said no. He had Matthews' resignation but wouldn't accept it. The Democrats took the fight to the floor of the Senate yesterday. McCarthy

Escaped POW Given Break

CHICAGO (AP) — Reinhold Pabel, 38, an escaped German war prisoner who was arrested last March after eight years of freedom, will not be deported but will be allowed to leave the U. S. voluntarily.

A ruling by the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service Wednesday paved the way for Pabel's legal re-entry as the husband of an American. He plans to go to Mexico while his wife Avis, 21, starts legal moves to have him return to this country. Pabel, who since 1948 has operated a bookstore, married a Chicago girl two years ago but she did not know he was an escaped prisoner. They have one son, Christopher, 1, and are expecting another child.

They Want Only Half-Dozen More

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Rexford Oakley, who would like to have "an even two dozen" children, may not attain their goal.

Yesterday Mrs. Oakley presented her husband with a six pound, 10-ounce girl—their 19th child. All but one of the children, whose ages range from 16-month-old twin boys to James, 24, are living.

When the twins were born to the 44-year-old couple in March, 1952, Oakley commented: "We'd like to have an even two dozen."

backed up a little, but not to the point of getting rid of Matthews. And then the White House made an announcement.

A Catholic priest, a rabbi and a Presbyterian minister, representing the National Conference of Christians and Jews, had sent President Eisenhower a telegram which didn't mention Matthews by name but denounced his attack.

Eisenhower, in a reply which didn't mention Matthews or McCarthy, said: "Generalized and irresponsible attacks that sweepingly condemn the whole of any group of citizens are alien to America."

It was right there that McCarthy quit. He accepted Matthews' resignation.

McCarthy had crossed swords with Eisenhower before: by trying unsuccessfully to block the President's nomination of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Russia; by bypassing the State Department in trying to make deals with Greek shipowners not to trade with Red China; and by hammering away at the State Department.

Except for backing Bohlen, Eisenhower has been almost meek in dealing with McCarthy. But this time, on an issue which cut across all political lines because it involved religion, Eisenhower spoke out. It was too much for McCarthy.

Foundation Student Tells Rotary Club Of Experiences In England

Clarence M. "Clip" Higgins Jr. of Coshocton, Ohio Rotary Foundation Fellowship student who attended Edinburgh University, Scotland, in 1952 and 1953, spoke before Circleville Rotary Club Thursday and related some of his experiences during his visit overseas.

Speaking upon "The Life of a Fellow," Higgins said he was greatly impressed by the English people at first, mainly in that he had thought they were "cold." But, after becoming better acquainted, he found them to be very warm hearted.

After arriving in Scotland, he was the guest of Rotary families there and found the Scots to be very sociable.

There seems to be much class distinction in England, Higgins said, and the English people cannot realize how the average American workman can own an automobile and have the many luxuries they enjoy. This is due to the fact the wages of the English people are very low compared to wages of Americans.

IN ENGLAND, luxury items are heavily taxed while some services are much lower than in America; for instance, milk costs seven cents a quart and a haircut is only 24 cents.

High taxation in England is eliminating some of the large estates, for the owners cannot bear the expenses. Estates are being sold or being opened to the public with a small fee of admission for sightseeing.

The food situation is not too good in England, with rationing still in effect. Meat is rationed according to quality, not by the amount purchased, he said, and England is continuing rationing in an effort to balance its budget.

Speaking about Socialism in England, Higgins said after he

NEW YORK (AP) — The chairman of a congressional committee says "irregularities" have been spotted in the handling of defense contracts in the New York area.

Rep. William E. Hess (R-Ohio), after questioning some 60 witnesses, yesterday told newsmen:

"It looks to me like just the first phase of an investigation that will have to continue for some time."

Hess said he wants more information on surveys made before defense contracts were awarded and the qualifications of government ordnance inspectors.

The hearings are scheduled to end today.

3 New Players Spark Jaycees For LBL Win Over Rotary, 10-6

Transformed into a strong pentant contender by three new players, Bob Steele's Jaycees charged out of the Little Bigger League basement Thursday night in Ted Lewis Park, defeating Rotary by a 10-6 margin.

Across the park, younger editions of the same teams were staging the wildest game yet recorded in the Little League as the Rotarians rallied to win over the Jaycees, 11 to 10.

Two classy infielders and a top-rank hurler, all recruited from Ashville under league rules when the Jaycee roster began to dwindle recently, played leading roles in the LBL victory for the Steelers.

After both clubs tallied twice in the opening frame, the Jaycees went on a five-run spree after two were down in the second.

It gave the Steele crew enough to win, although Cecil Andrews' Rotarians were a threat up until the final putout.

IN THE LITTLE LEAGUE, the youngest players could be heard all over the park neighborhood as Rotary uncorked a tremendous eight-run rally in the last of the final inning to take the verdict.

Circleville's All-Stars travel to Columbus Friday night to tangle with the Boys Club team in nationwide LBL competition. The contest is scheduled for 5:45 p. m. at Ohio State University.

Play in both of the city league games Thursday night ranged from brilliant efforts to nightmare misplays.

By trouncing Rotary in the LBL contest, the Jaycees climbed into third place on the heels of the runner-up Kiwanians. Both teams may cause Jaggy Davis to lose sleep as he continues to pilot his Elks ahead of the mob.

After playing two tie games and being rained out once, Rotary went into the records with a single mark on the deficit side. It holds the Andrews machine on the bottom, but the club is known to have league-leading power if the club can find the correct formula.

Rotary looked to be going places at last when Callihan opened hostilities with a beautiful bunt along the left foul line for a hit. Larry Fullen, a new Jaycee shortstop, backed up and fell flat to make a wov of a catch on Salyers' fly, but Mike Hosler sent a long triple into left-center to score Callihan. Hosler himself came in a moment later when the Jaycees were caught napping between pitches.

JONES FANNED for the second out and Johnson was thrown out by Fullen.

First hint that the lean days were ended for the Jaycees came in the bottom of the first. After Camp fanned, Fullen walked and stole second, Fullen walked and stole second by a sprint that barely beat Jones' fast throw. First Baseman Lonnie Cromley, another newcomer, also walked.

Two were down after Phifer hit to Salyers at third and Fullen was out at the plate. However, Jerry Reigel, the third Ashville boy playing with the Jaycees for the first time, bounced a single over Alkire's head into left, scoring two runs. Mike Davis kept the party going with a scratch single to shortstop, but Kelly struck out.

Callihan was credited with a double in Rotary's half of the second when Davis lost his high fly in the sun. The hit, plus two walks, filled the sacks, but the third out came on a force at the plate, Phifer to Sines.

That rang up the curtain on the Jaycee attack that netted the winning edge.

Gentzel watched a third strike go past to open the last of the second. Sines walked and lost no time in working his way to third. Camp was also out on strikes, but when Fullen walked there were men on first and third. Cromley stroled to fill the bases.

THEY WERE STILL filled after Phifer's scratch single on a roller to Salyers brought in one run. Reigel's rap went through the shortstop for an error and two more tallies. The runners were on second and third when Davis singled through the box, bringing in another pair of markers that did the trick.

Rotary kept plugging away, but never caught up. Bill Schneider's single in the third brought in Jones with the third run for the Andrews club. And in the fourth, another was registered when Hosler came in on a fielder's choice after getting on via a walk. Schneider followed up with a scratch single on a tap to second base, but the Rotary first sacker was left lonesome when Johnson fanned for the third out.

Schneider and Jones brought in the last Rotary runs in the sixth on a walk and Jaycee misplays.

Phifer was effective in the rough spots while hurling the first three innings for the winners. Reigel, a lanky fireball slinger, worked the last three innings to show Steele a sample of what he can do.

Reigel's Ashville pals furnished highlights of the Jaycee support that nipped several Rotary threats. In the sixth, Cromley duplicated Fullen's falling catch to snare Salyers' looper into right.

Andrews had to lift Hosler from mound duty after three innings because of a sore arm, Salyers taking over on the hill. Each team had five hits.

Fielding gem for the losers was by Callihan, who made a sensational running catch in the fifth and then hurried to second to double Phifer.

THE LITTLE LEAGUE tussle was a tough loss for Red Wilson's ace twirler, Asa Elsea, who returned from summer camp just in time to hold the little Rotarians almost helpless for five innings. It was in the last of the final sixth that the Jaycee defenses blew up, helped by hits and damaging walks. Jaycee had the game all but nailed down, 10 to 3, going into the end of the closing stanza.

Dick Stevens was moved in to try and help Elsea put out the fire, but the damage was done before the starting pitcher came back to end the battle. Duane Dean hurried for Rotary and cashed in on the riot staged by his mates.

Elsea had three hits and a walk for himself while twirling a splendid game for the first five innings. His catcher, Strawser, clouted a home run with two on in the top of the sixth. D. Ferguson, Rotary second-sacker,

3 New Players Spark Jaycees For LBL Win Over Rotary, 10-6

Transformed into a strong pennant contender by three new players, Bob Steele's Jaycees charged out of the Little Bigger League basement Thursday night in Ted Lewis Park, defeating Rotary by a 10-6 margin.

Across the park, younger editions of the same teams were staging the wildest game yet recorded in the Little League as the Rotarians rallied to win over the Jaycees, 11 to 10.

Two classy infielders and a top-ranked hurler, all recruited from Ashville under league rules when the Jaycee roster began to dwindle recently, played leading roles in the LBL victory for the Steelers.

After both clubs tallied twice in the opening frame, the Jaycees went on a five-run spree after two were down in the second.

It gave the Steele crew enough to win, although Cecil Andrews' Rotarians were a threat up until the final putout.

IN THE LITTLE League, the youngest players could be heard all over the park neighborhood as Rotary uncorked a tremendous eight-run rally in the last of the final inning to take the verdict.

Only 6 Pitchers Don't Leave Casey Much Room For Error

NEW YORK (AP)—The way Casey Stengel's Yankee staff has been going lately, it's a wonder he didn't pick 17 pitchers for his American League All-Star squad and let the fans' eight starters go all the way.

Everybody else's pitchers must look good to old Case. Still he left out Bob Porterfield and Mel Parnell, two boys who shut out his world champions within the last 10 days.

Six pitchers don't leave Stengel much room for error in a series where he already has lost three straight to the Nationals. Absence of left-handers, with the lone exception of Chicago's Billy Pierce, actually is amazing.

Of course, Stengel has a pretty fair record of pitcher juggling when it comes to World Series games. Nobody who saw it ever will forget how he called in left-handed Bob Kuzava in the late innings of the last game two years in a row—to get out the right-handers!

Although Stengel won't pick his starter for Tuesday's game at Cincinnati until next week, everybody is sure it will be Pierce. The National League starting lineup is loaded with lefties—men like Ed Mathews, Stan Musial, Ted Kluszewski and Enos Slaughter who can knock down fences.

Selection of Satch Paige, venerable St. Louis Brownie, probably stemmed from the job Satch did on the Yanks the night St. Louis broke their 18 - game winning streak. It will be a long time before Case will forget the sight of old Satch ambling in from the bullpen with his pants legs down around his ankles to snuff out the Yanks.

You can't say Stengel slighted any shortstops or first basemen. He picked four of each on the club, counting the two voted by the fans. An experienced baseball man, like Jimmy Dykes of the A's, told me recently he thought two rookies, Harvey Kuenn of Detroit and Billy Hunter of St. Louis, rated with the top shortstops in the league.

With Mickey Vernon, Johnny Mize, Eddie Robinson and Ferris Fain, Stengel can four-plateon to his soul's delight, just as though he were home at Yankee Stadium.

Virgilina Van Proves She's Well-Named

COLUMBUS (AP)—When her owner set about to name Virgilina Van, he did a good job.

The sleek little filly, who won the 22 Class Trot at Hilliards Raceway Thursday night in 2:12.3, is owned and driven by George W. VanCamp of Circleville.

Virgilina Van was named after Mrs. VanCamp, who holds a high school girls' dash record in North Carolina.

Columbus realtor Russell Welch is putting the entire stock of his Shangri La Stables up for sale Saturday.

Ted Williams Hopes To Play Baseball Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Marine Captain Ted Williams said he definitely will play with the Boston Red Sox next year and expressed the hope that he could get permission to participate in some winter ball to work himself into condition.

"It all depends, of course, upon whether the Red Sox still want me," Williams told Fred Corcoran, his business manager.

"After all, I am an old man," he said. He is 33.

Ted, who arrived in the United States from Korea Thursday for a series of ear tests at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland, Calif., told Corcoran he has no immediate plans since his discharge from the Marines is not due until October.

He expressed pleasure over Boston's surprisingly fine showing this season but somewhat sadly predicted that the Yankees will win the American League pennant for the fifth straight year. He picked Brooklyn to repeat in the NL.

In New York, Manager Lou Boudreau of the Red Sox expressed happiness over Williams' decision to return to baseball and said he feels certain he can find a spot in the lineup for the slugger.

"Show me one club that couldn't use a guy like Williams," he said. Williams has been out of baseball since the Marines called him up May 2, 1952, for his second hitch in the armed services.

2 Coaches OK'd

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Nearby Hubbard High School has hired two new coaches. T. Yahn, resigning from the Canton school system, will be a football line coach. Clayton West, head basketball coach at Navarre will fill the same role at Hubbard, assisting in football.

Messrs. Marvel and McKeough raise the interesting point, it would seem, that a bureau, once having been established, cannot be abolished. As Congress can lawfully limit or abolish any agency of government by withholding funds, a challenge is hurled at the constitutional functions of Congress.

These bureaucrats deny the right of Congress to withhold funds or the "responsible officials of the Department of State and of the Office of the President" to ask for their resignations. They refused to resign and regarded the refusal to provide funds as an "unwarranted interference."

Who are these guys, anyhow? Certainly when appointed officials set themselves up as superior to their own government, we are approaching an anarchistic state. I know of one agency that is so hamstrung with inefficient personnel, subversives and saboteurs that a desperation besets the entire operation.

Someday a Fifth Amendment of office-holder, who refused to answer whether he is now engaged in espionage for an enemy nation, will contend that he must be permitted to continue in his job because he enjoys Civil Service status. As a matter of fact, some such contentions are being made on the basis of Civil Service and Veteran Preferences. A government can quickly be paralyzed by such untenable concepts of government employment.

Some New Dealers take the impudent position that their jobs must be continued because they are convinced that the Democrats will win the Congress in 1954 and that then they will have all the protection they require.

Meanwhile, the Administration of government suffers from insubordination.

Cincy Hoping For Long Hime

CINCINNATI (AP)—Home runs figure to be common items at the Cincinnati Redlegs' Crosley Field during the next three days.

The Chicago Cubs will be here for five games in those three days and their Ralph Kiner and Hank Sauer along with the Reds' Gus Bell, Ted Kluszewski and Jim Greengrass ought to be able to satisfy anyone's home run appetite.

There will be a twinnight double bill tonight with Ken Raffensberger and Clyde King of the Reds pitching against Bob Ruess and Paul Minner of the Bruins. A single game is scheduled for Saturday and another double bill Sunday.

Only 6 Pitchers Don't Leave Casey Much Room For Error

NEW YORK (AP)—The way Casey Stengel's Yankee staff has been going lately, it's a wonder he didn't pick 17 pitchers for his American League All-Star squad and let the fans' eight starters go all the way.

Everybody else's pitchers must look good to old Casey. Still he left out Bob Porterfield and Mel Parnell, two boys who shut out his world champions within the last 10 days.

Six pitchers don't leave Stengel much room for error in a series where he already has lost three straight to the Nationals. Absence of left-handers, with the lone exception of Chicago's Billy Pierce, actually is amazing.

Of course, Stengel has a pretty fair record of pitcher juggling when it comes to World Series games. Nobody who saw it ever will forget how he called in left-handed Bob Kuzava in the late innings of the last game two years in a row—to get out the right-handers!

Although Stengel won't pick his starter for Tuesday's game at Cincinnati until next week, everybody is sure it will be Pierce. The National League starting lineup is loaded with lefties—men like Ed Mathews, Stan Musial, Ted Kluszewski and Enos Slaughter who can knock down fences.

Selection of Satch Paige, venerable St. Louis Brownie, probably stemmed from the job Satch did on the Yanks the night St. Louis broke their 18-game winning streak. It will be a long time before Casey will forget the sight of old Satch ambling in from the bullpen with his pants legs down around his ankles to snuff out the Yanks.

You can't say Stengel slighted any shortstops or first basemen. He picked four of each on the club, counting the two voted by the fans. An experienced baseball man, like Jimmy Dykes of the A's, told me recently he thought two rookies, Harvey Kuenn of Detroit and Billy Hunter of St. Louis, traded with the top shortstops in the league.

With Mickey Vernon, Johnny Mize, Eddie Robinson and Ferris Fain, Stengel can four-plateau to his soul's delight, just as though he were home at Yankee Stadium.

Ted Williams Hopes To Play Baseball Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Marine Captain Ted Williams said he definitely will play with the Boston Red Sox next year and expressed the hope that he could get permission to participate in some winter ball to work himself into condition.

"It all depends, of course, upon whether the Red Sox still want me," Williams told Fred Corcoran, his business manager.

"After all, I am an old man," he said. He is 33.

Ted, who arrived in the United States from Korea Thursday for a series of ear tests at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland, Calif., told Corcoran he has no immediate plans since his discharge from the Marines is not due until October.

He expressed pleasure over Boston's surprisingly fine showing this season but somewhat sadly predicted that the Yankees will win the American League pennant for the fifth straight year. He picked Brooklyn to repeat in the NL.

In New York, Manager Lou Boudreau of the Red Sox expressed happiness over Williams' decision to return to baseball and said he feels certain he can find a spot in the lineup for the slugger.

"Show me one club that couldn't use a guy like Williams," he said. Williams has been out of baseball since the Marines called him up May 2, 1952, for his second hitch in the armed services.

2 Coaches OK'd

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Nearby Hubbard High School has hired two new coaches. T. Yahn, resigning from the Canton school system, will be a football line coach. Clayton West, head basketball coach at Navarre will fill the same role at Hubbard, assisting in football.

Messrs. Marvel and McKeough raise the interesting point, it would seem, that a bureau, once having been established, cannot be abolished. As Congress can lawfully limit or abolish any agency of government by withholding funds, a challenge is hurled at the constitutional functions of Congress.

These bureaucrats deny the right of Congress to withhold funds or the "responsible officials of the Department of State and of the Office of the President" to ask for their resignations. They refused to resign and regarded the refusal to

Who are these guys, anyhow? Certainly when appointed officials set themselves up as superior to their own government, we are approaching an anarchistic state. I know of one agency that is so hamstrung with inefficient personnel, subversives and saboteurs that a desperation besets the entire operation.

Someday a Fifth Amendment office-holder, who refused to answer whether he is now engaged in espionage for an enemy nation, will contend that he must be permitted to continue in his job because he enjoys Civil Service status. As a matter of fact, some such contentions are being made on the basis of Civil Service and Veteran Preferences. A government can quickly be paralyzed by such untenable concepts of government employment.

Some New Dealers take the impudent position that their jobs must be continued because they are convinced that the Democrats will win the Congress in 1954 and that then they will have all the protection they require.

Meanwhile, the Administration of government suffers from insubordination.

Cincy Hoping For Long Hits

CINCINNATI (AP)—Home runs figure to be common items at the Cincinnati Redlegs' Crosley Field during the next three days.

The Chicago Cubs will be here for five games in those three days and their Ralph Kiner and Hank Sauer along with the Reds' Gus Bell, Ted Kluszewski and Jim Greengrass ought to be able to satisfy anyone's home run appetite.

There will be a twilight double bill tonight with Ken Raffensberger and Clyde King of the Reds pitching against Bob Ruess and Paul Minner of the Bruns. A single game is scheduled for Saturday and another double bill Sunday.

More Vigilance By Parents Could Cut Fatal Accidents

Study Shows Autos Cause Most Deaths

A great majority of the 5,500 fatal accidents to young children yearly in the United States and Canada could be averted if parents and others in charge of children were more vigilant in watching over them.

This was shown through a study of the circumstances of such accidents to children who were insured.

Fatal accidents currently account for one-fourth of all deaths among children at ages one to four in the two countries and take a far higher toll than any other cause of death.

Among insured children, auto accidents were the leading cause of fatal injury, accounting for more than a third of the total. In many instances, the fatal accidents happened while the children were playing in their own driveways or yards.

CONFLAGRATIONS and burns by other means ranked second in frequency as a cause of fatal accidents. In the United States, a majority of the children who lost their lives this way were trapped in burning buildings; in Canada, burns other than conflagrations accounted for the larger part of the death toll.

These other mishaps resulted from the child playing with matches, upsetting or falling into hot liquids, having its clothing ignited by playing too close to an open fire and similar incidents.

Drownings, falls, and the swallowing of poisons each accounted for a significant proportion of the fatalities in the insurance experience.

For several years life insurance companies have cooperated with the American Medical Association, the American Academy of Pediatrics and the National Safety Council in a campaign to cut down the yearly toll of fatal accidents among children.

"The physician, and particularly the pediatrician, is playing an important role in the child safety program," those concerned with health and welfare activities note.

"As a family counselor, the physician has the opportunity to advise on accident prevention. He is familiar with the child's growth and development and can, therefore, enlighten parents on hazards against which reasonable precautions should be taken."

Workers Conclude Lengthy Strike

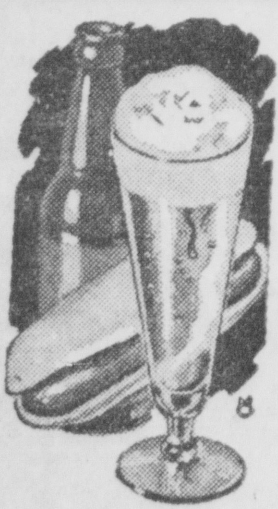

BOWLING GREEN (AP)—Plant officials at the Brush Beryllium Co. plant in nearby Luckey say they hope to reach full production Monday.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A pound-and-a-half baby, 48 hours old today, is reported by hospital attendants to be "doing exceptionally well."

The premature son of Mrs. Juanita Ogden, 24, of suburban Van Nuys, has gained in strength and is breathing better than he did his first day, attendants at Good Samaritan Hospital said.

How Does It Feel When Your Little Child Just Vanishes?

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—How would you feel if your little girl or boy suddenly vanished completely from your life?

Here is the reaction of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Nolan, foster parents of 8-year-old Stella Darlene, who disappeared 20 days ago today without leaving a trace.

The blue-eyed, blonde youngster was last seen at 8:30 p. m. Saturday, June 20, playing with other children near a refreshment stand operated by Mrs. Nolan at Auction City, a nearby shopping center.

"Somebody must have seen her being taken," said Mrs. Nolan, 40, as she and her husband, 45, sat in their trailer home talking with friends. "I think somebody is holding back information."

Outside, Darlene's fat little dog Pal panted in the heat and gazed inquiringly at passing children. Her cat Mittens lay in the shade under her child's chair.

Mrs. Nolan and her husband, a truck driver who recently retired as a chief aviation machinist's mate after 21 years in the Navy, are attempting to resume some sort of pattern in their lives. It's difficult to sleep.

"I'll never give up hope as long as there's breath in my body," said Mrs. Nolan. "But it's getting harder to feel that she's alive."

Looking toward her husband, she added, "But he believes that she's alive." He nodded thoughtfully.

"The police told us we must prepare ourselves to face anything," declared Mrs. Nolan, a tall woman with intense brown eyes. She recalled the case of 6-year-old Rochelle Gluskoter, whose skeleton was found on the desert 18 months after she had disappeared in 1946.

"I hope Darlene was taken by some woman with a mother's conscience."

plex who has not harmed her and that she will be seen somewhere and saved.

"I do know in my heart and soul that she was taken by force. She never would have left by herself."

The Nolans have had the girl since she was 5 days old.

The natural mother, Mrs. Betty Jean Stalcup Eckols, now living in Breckenridge, Tex., gave the child to the Nolans for adoption.

"If only whoever's got her would turn her loose near a policeman," Nolan said. "He wouldn't have to show himself. She'll go to the officer."

Mrs. Nolan took a deep breath. "Whoever took her, God help him!"

Gov. Dewey Denies Ike 'Directive'

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey denied today a published report that President Eisenhower has "let it be known" to him that he would like him to run for governor next year, and that Dewey acceded.

"Sheer fiction," Dewey told a newsman when asked for comment on a New York Daily News story from Washington. Dewey said the subject was not mentioned when he visited the White House this week.

The News said Eisenhower had made the same overture to Republican Sen. James H. Duff regarding the governorship of Pennsylvania. "Dewey said yes. Duff said maybe," the News said. Duff could not be reached for comment.
